

Handwriting

Gogo says it is important to practise our handwriting. She always says that practice makes perfect. When practising your handwriting, remember to use a sharp pencil and to leave a finger's space between each letter you write. You can use the monkeys to help you position and form your letters correctly.

Example:

b, d, f, h, and l are head and tummy letters.

g is a tummy and tail letter.

Writing

Forms lower case letters correcting: directionality, formation and spacing within lines.
