TEXT ASOUTH AFRICAN HEROES OF 2021

- 1 The year 2021 was not easy. The pandemic proved it was not going anywhere, there was loadshedding and the petrol price skyrocketed. However, one thing we know about South Africans, is that we really know how to find inspiration on even the darkest days. This article highlights five extraordinary South Africans who have done just that. 5
- 2 At the age of 10, Ntando Mahlangu still could not walk causing his parents to fear that their child would spend the rest of his life in a wheelchair. Now, this teenager is one of the most inspiring Paralympic athletes on the planet, with two gold medals to prove it.
- 3 The 19-year-old blade runner and jumper leapt into the hearts of South Africans when he set the world record in the men's long jump at the 2020 Paralympics in Tokyo. He followed this up with another gold medal in the men's 200 metres and cemented his status as national hero. 10
- 4 His rise to the top has been nothing short of remarkable and his story has been captured in a Netflix film titled, Rising Phoenix. Ntando, who was 18 at the time the movie was filmed, was the youngest Paralympian¹ featured. His plans for 2022 include pursuing a career in investment management, while also running circles around his opponents on the track. 15
- 5 Tatjana Schoenmaker, is a South African swimmer who made a splash at the Tokyo Olympics when she took gold and broke the first world record at the Games. The 24-year-old from Roodepoort on the West Rand completed the 200 metres breaststroke in two minutes and eighteen seconds. She also won silver in the 100 metres breaststroke. 20
- 6 Tatjana used her reward money and money collected in her honour, to start the Tatjana Foundation. The foundation serves to educate people on water safety while also offering swimming classes to the disadvantaged. 25
- 7 Dr Emmanuel Taban's journey to becoming one of South Africa's leading pulmonologists² was by no means an easy one. He was born into poverty in the war-torn Sudan but made his way to South Africa, on foot, when he was just 17. At times, he did not know where he would sleep or where his next meal would come from. He prides himself on being persistent and thinking out of the box. 'If the system says no, you go to the next door,' he says. 'If the door is closed, push it gently or look through the keyhole – you might see something.' 30

8	Professor Keertan Dheda is part of a leading team of scientists at the University of Cape Town, who has developed a new method of diagnosing Tuberculosis (TB) from the skin. This method, which is fast and accurate, is called an A-Patch. It detects TB compounds released from the skin. Patients are required to wear two absorbent patches on their upper arm for an hour and then samples from these patches are analysed to diagnose TB.	35
9	Professor Dheda says the cutting-edge technology can change how other illnesses are diagnosed. He believes that the A-patch has laid the foundation for the development of a variety of wearable patches which can detect many different illnesses and diseases.	40
10	When Ernest Majenge saw how people with disabilities battled to move around in wheelchairs, he was inspired to help them by creating a wheelchair that climbs stairs.	45
11	After making a prototype of the chair, Ernest sought funding for his project, but investors thought he was bonkers, saying he was wasting his time. Undeterred, he continued looking for assistance to bring his vision to life. Finally, he found one in France.	50
12	His company, The Wheelchair Doctor , has already sold five wheelchairs in Paris and he now plans to grow the business. Ernest says there is no wheelchair like his, which is proudly South African. The company is even in the process of coming up with more wheelchairs for different scenarios and areas such as beaches, schools and old age homes.	55

TEXT CMONEY MANAGEMENT MADE EASY

Money management is one of the most important keys to financial success. Not everyone is born with a silver spoon in the mouth, and money definitely does not grow on trees, but this does not mean you cannot live a life of luxury. There are many ways you can ensure that you save enough money to be financially stable.

Setting a financial goal forces you to be disciplined regarding your spending habits. You can choose a small goal like saving up for a phone and a big one like saving up for your retirement.

One of the best management decisions you can make is to set up a monthly budget. This helps you to avoid overspending. There are three personal budgeting systems people use: the envelope budget, the 50/30/20 budget and the zero budget.

Cutting down on debt will help you get ahead financially. The more debt you erase, the less interest you will pay, and this will lead to thousands of rands of savings. If you have multiple debts, work on clearing the smaller ones first.

Cut your spending on brand-name products and choose the cheaper alternative especially for things like cleaners, facial tissues, or snack foods. Keep track of every purchase you make by keeping receipts and checking bank statements.

Shopping with friends often leads to unnecessary spending. Avoid the temptation and rather go to the mall on your own. Introduce some spending limits by allowing yourself a percentage of the money you have for leisure and the rest for saving.

2. These marking guidelines serve as a guide to markers. Some responses may require a marker's discretion.
3. Candidates' responses should be assessed as objectively as possible.

MARKING THE COMPREHENSION

- Because the focus is on understanding, incorrect spelling and language errors in responses should not be penalised unless such errors change the meaning/ understanding. (Errors must still be indicated.)
- If a candidate uses words from a language other than the one being examined, disregard those words, and if the answer still makes sense, do not penalise. However, if a word from another language is used in a text and required in an answer, this will be acceptable.
- For open-ended questions, no marks should be awarded for YES/NO or I AGREE/I DISAGREE. The reason/substantiation/motivation is what should be considered.
- When one-word answers are required and the candidate gives a whole sentence, mark correct provided that the correct word is underlined/highlighted.
- When two/three facts/points are required and a range is given, mark only the first two/three.
- Accept dialectal variations.
- For multiple-choice questions, accept BOTH the letter corresponding with the correct answer AND/OR the answer written out in full.

The title, SOUTH AFRICAN HEROES OF 2021, is suitable because the people mentioned in the passage managed to overcome the challenges they faced to gain success. They can be seen as heroes or role models for others.
